MISS BERNICE MILLER

Best wishes - and
I'll glad to see you next year.
Bernice Miller

Dedication

As an expression of our appreciation for the fine work she is doing we proudly dedicate the 1958 Nicolet to Miss Bernice Miller.

The warm smile and ready wit so characteristic of Miss Miller endear her to all who know her. As guidance counsellor she becomes acquainted with the future plans of all seniors. Many a graduate has been assisted immeasurably by her advice on scholarships, colleges, and vocations.

It is Miss Miller's sincere interest in the growing needs of maturing students that produces the well-integrated guidance program at Menasha High School.

On Our Campus

Ever flourishing trees that shade our green campus on a warm summer's day . . . white pillars stretching to the sky, making our auditorium dramatically exciting on concert nights . . . the complete inactivity outside the school on a quiet afternoon . . . the bustle of scurrying students inside . . . the slightly noticed change of our school campus from green to rust to white and back to green, marking the passing of the year . . . these surroundings will remain in our minds as vivid memories of our school days.

Visiting Classes

Biology

There comes a time in a biology student's life when he must bear the odor of formaldehyde and the general unpleasantness of dissecting. While some students are interested in dissecting, others have an aversion for it. Joanne Karasek and Bonnie Berro react quite characteristically as Mr. Karasek, biology instructor, points out some of the vital organs in the body of a frog.

Mechanical Drawing

Have you ever looked admiringly at a giant superstructure and wondered about the origin of the design of such a building? In Mr. Halversen's mechanical drawing class we see the very beginning of the study that goes into such a construction project. Here at the drawing board David Mueller goes over some of the complicated problems that face the atomic age draftsman.

Home Economics

In early December pungent odors of fruit cake, cookies, and candy steal through school corridors. The home economics classes are starting their annual holiday project. When the baking and cooking have been completed, the girls, in the spirit of Christmas, festively package plates of goodies for faculty members. Here we see Mary Joas, Joan Eimer, Faye Grignon, and Miss Loebe wrapping spicy fruit cakes.

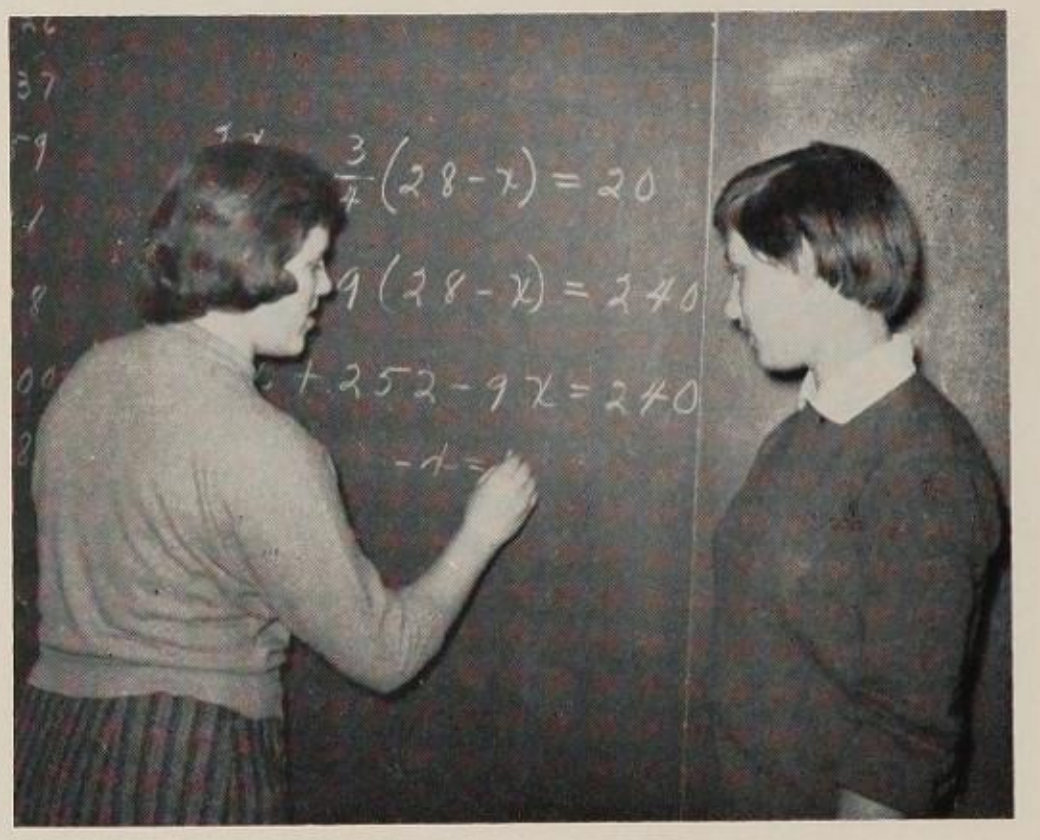
Classes Feature

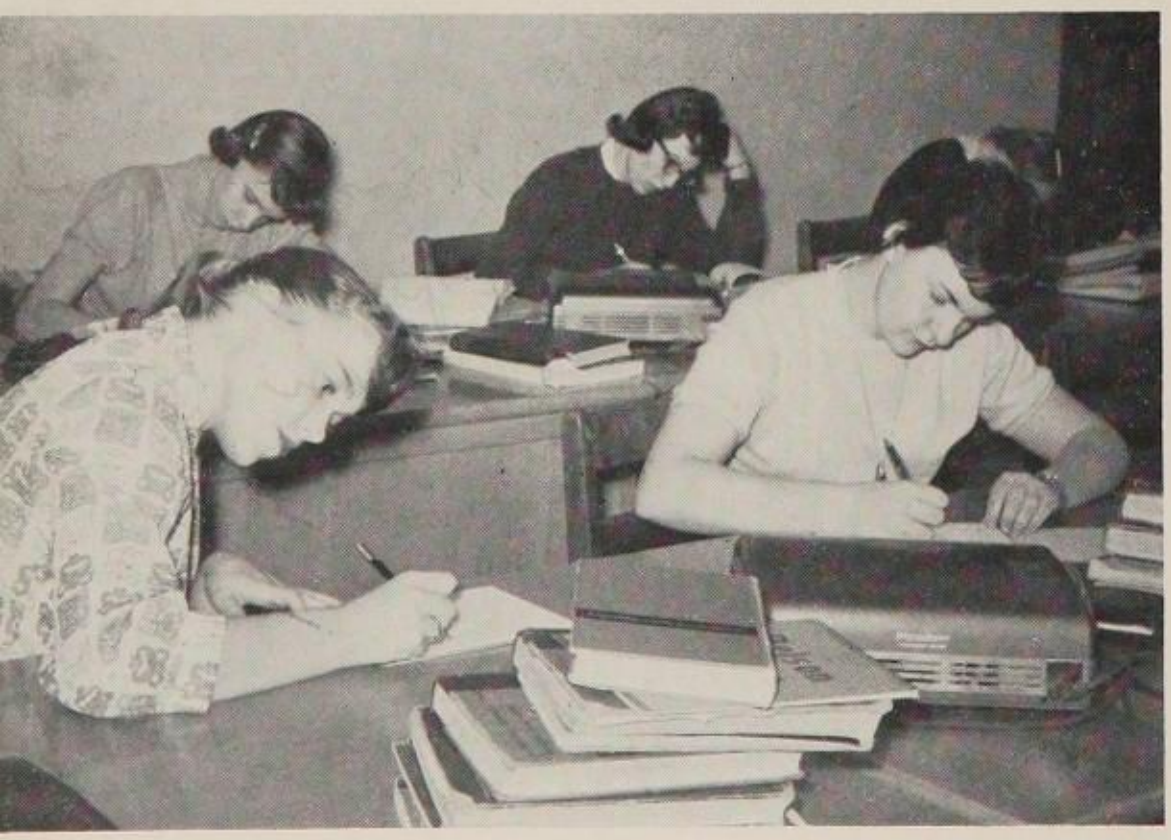
Printing

The hum of the presses, the sound of type sliding into position, and the odor of printer's ink—this combination describes the M.H.S. print shop. Here we see two freshman boys in Mr. Woolf's class, locking forms. In actual shop experience the freshman students apply their classroom study of paper and ink, of typesetting, of proofreading, of locking forms, and of press work.

Algebra

Since -x equals -1, x is the unknown. What is this mystery number? At the beginning of the year this little letter causes disagreement among quite a number of students as the puzzled faces of Eileen Kichefski and Joan Gunther plainly reveal. By the end of the semester this little x, now a familiar part of algebra problems, finally seems to fit into a solution.



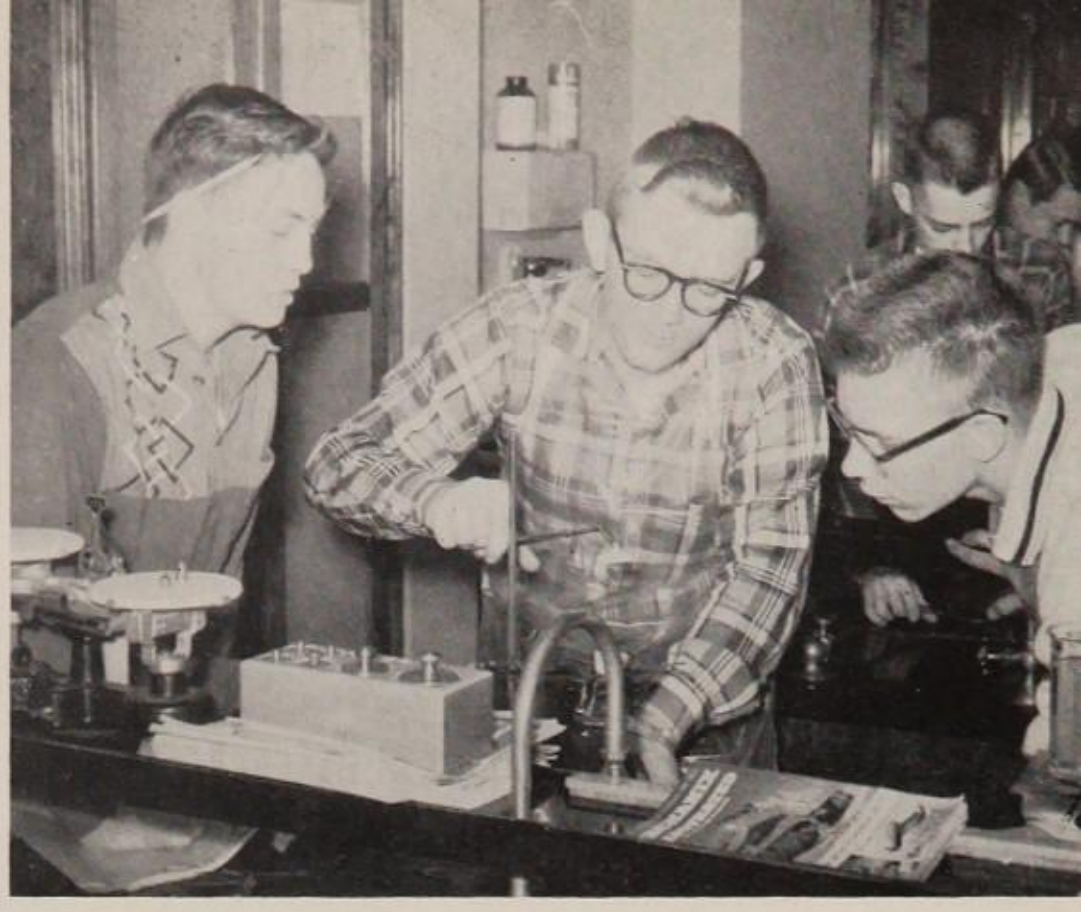


Advanced Shorthand

"Dear Mr. Jackson," reads Miss Acker as these alert secretaries-to-be strain to take down every word that is being read. While Patsy Bisping, Judy Gavinski, Sandy Krock, and Rosemarie Graner are taking dictation, they are completely absorbed in their work. Nothing can stop the rapid movement of their pens except the sudden cessation of Miss Acker's voice.

Student Activity

Chemistry



"Be careful of that crucible cover, Pete," advises Tom Becher, watching closely. "It breaks easily." With a pencil perched on his ear Dick Oliver stands ready to take down readings while the rest of the trio carry on the experiment which involves calculation of the percentage of oxygen in an oxide of a metal. The solution of chemical equations requires careful observation.

Machine Shop

In today's age of the do-it-yourself project, a course in metal working is almost necessary for a boy who faces the inevitable prospect of taking care of little repairs around the house. Metal working courses are an important part of the industrial arts program. Here Wayne O'Connell works over the crimper, one of the processes used in the making of a metal product.

Attendance Records

This scene is a common one should anyone happen to pass by room 219 on a school morning. Here, on this particular morning, Shirley Meyer and Sue Woods are getting their excuse slips from Miss Walker, Dean of Girls. The familiar white slip which is issued upon the submission of an excuse from home becomes a record of a student's make-up status in each class.

Growing Groups

Bookkeeping

"Oh, my aching head," sighs Theresa Woyak as she goes over her bookkeeping study guide. "I'm still off $2.32. Catherine, could you help me find my mistake?" Catherine gives her a pathetic look as she struggles with her own study guide. This scene is only one in many as these students progress through a year of solving problems.

Physics

Does air have weight? Finding the answer to this question is the object of the experiment being studied in physics class by Tony Brunner, Mary Ann Plagowski and Bruce Wogikoski. The fact that the rubber membrane stretched across the opening of the bell jar is pushed into the jar when the air is drawn out of it proves that air does have weight. Experimenters are impressed with this proof.

Art

" Is your shading getting any lighter?" asks Janice Ambrosius of Mary Kondy as the two try their hand at mixing colors for the first time. "Maybe I am not adding enough white paint." continues Janice, hopefully. These experiments in color tinting are only a part of the full art curriculum. The study of ceramics and pottery, which preceded this color work, resulted in some excellent displays for the new showcase.

Faculty

It is the supreme art of the teacher to awaken joy in creative expression and knowledge.

—Albert Einstein

Knotty Problems Face Our School Board

Mr. L. A. Wienbergen, Principal

Mr. M. J. Gegan, Superintendent

Problems! Yes, many problems of a growing population face the Menasha Board of Education. The construction of an elementary school in the Clovis Park district is alleviating some problems temporarily, but the Board is seeking to correct crowded conditions by other means, namely, by adding facilities to existing buildings and by constructing a junior high school.

Board of Education. Mr. M. J. Gegan, superintendent; Mr. Harold F. Haberman; Mr. James Omachinski; Mr. H. H. Kind; Mrs. Milton Gaertner, secretary; Mr. John Pawlowski, Jr.; Mr. Ted R. Neely, vice-president; Mr. Robert Farrell, president.

Vocational Wing Extends Services

MR. H. L. SHERMAN, VOCATIONAL DIRECTOR

Did you know that there are 1,759 students, ranging from teen-agers to men with master's degrees, attending the Menasha Vocational School, studying almost everything from printing to cosmetology? To meet the demands of this enrollment sixty-three part-time teachers are employed in the system. Yes, M.V.S. is certainly a forward moving organization in a forward moving community.

OFFICE SECRETARIES. (1)Miss Lillian Fahrbach, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Durward Lindquist. (2)Miss Joanne Prahl and Miss Valeria Holewinski.

BOARD OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION. Mr. Merrit Clinton, president; Mr. Frank Robinson; Mr. Douglas Hyde, vice-president; Mr. H. L. Sherman, director; Mr. W. P. Ryan, secretary; Mr. M. J. Gegan.

We Seniors Now Realize that the Road

(1) COMMITTEE HEADS—Dennis Kimmell, Mary Ann Eastwood, Dick Bremmer, Carl Nebel, and Judy Gajewski—combine ideas for "Frostbite Frolics." (2) DENNIS KIMMELL speaks on freedom at the Thanksgiving program. (3) "HOW CAN WE revise Article III?" asks Roseann Mattern, center, as she confers with senior Student Senators—Bruce Gallagher, seated; Judy Gavinski, Barbara Griesbach, Dolores Lingnofski, and Dick Bremmer, standing.

As graduates we stand at the threshold of our adult lives. We are leaving behind the carefree, happy days of childhood and youth. With the finality of compulsion, Commencement forces us to make decisions—decisions that we should like to postpone. Some of us will go on to college to prepare for our chosen professions; others will seek jobs in vocational or general fields; all of us will start a new pattern of life, a life based on the realism of adult responsibility and its problems.

We know that we must face this new life with a desire to be useful, to be enthusiastic, to be considerate. In short, we know that we must keep on growing.

Like the unyielding Ulysses in Tennyson's poem we must feel——

"How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnished, not to shine in use!"

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS. Jim Jurek, president; Bill Bauer, treasurer; Dick Taves, vice-president; Sally Friedrich, secretary.

The Class of 1959

"If you want to be a Bluejay, just come along with us!" chanted the Fifty-niners as they swung into school activities.

In the fall play, Three Fingers in the Door, four of the ten participants were juniors who turned in an outstanding performance.

On the football field junior success in mastering the rough and tumble sport after warming the bench for a year has provided M.H.S. with a strong line for next season.

Junior burners of the midnight oil have consistently supplied the Blue Jay columns with polished copy in prose and poetry.

Fifty-niner successes have been multiple.

If someone were to poll the talent areas in the Class of 1960, he would find that this group excels in music and in journalism.

Ten sophomore vocalists won positions in the select Jay Chorale while two accomplished young pianists, Judy Lindquist and Elizabeth Rosenthal, accompanied even the most difficult selections with ease and skill.

Eight aspiring sophomore journalists wrote regularly for the Blue Jay. Of these aspirants two earned special recognition with their colorful and lively copy. Many a student has chuckled over Judy's clever poems and Patsy's witty feature articles.

On September 5, 1957, I stepped into my role as an MHS freshman. I supposed these would be the hardest days of my life. Upon entering school, I expected to find at least a few of my friends. Instead I was almost crushed by the many strangers that confronted me. My next problem was to find my locker. I asked almost everyone I met if he knew where Locker 331 was. Nobody had seen it. Well, I finally found it; then came the hard part. My card said 37—40—21. Now which way was I to turn the pointer? I tried every combination possible before I succeeded in opening it.

Efforts to find my first class must have consumed ten minutes. When I walked into the room, everyone seemed to stop talking to stare at me. I had never felt so alone in all my life. It seemed hours and hours before it was time to go home for lunch. When I did get home, I was so unstrung I could hardly eat. The afternoon, however, passed fairly smoothly.

The next evening, Friday, I decided to go to the Welcome Party. Expecting an evening devoted to dancing, I was considerably disturbed when I was singled out for a part in a freshman initiation ceremony. Was my face red when I became the vocal part in a scene depicting an unsuccessful proposal! This mixer really broke the ice for me.

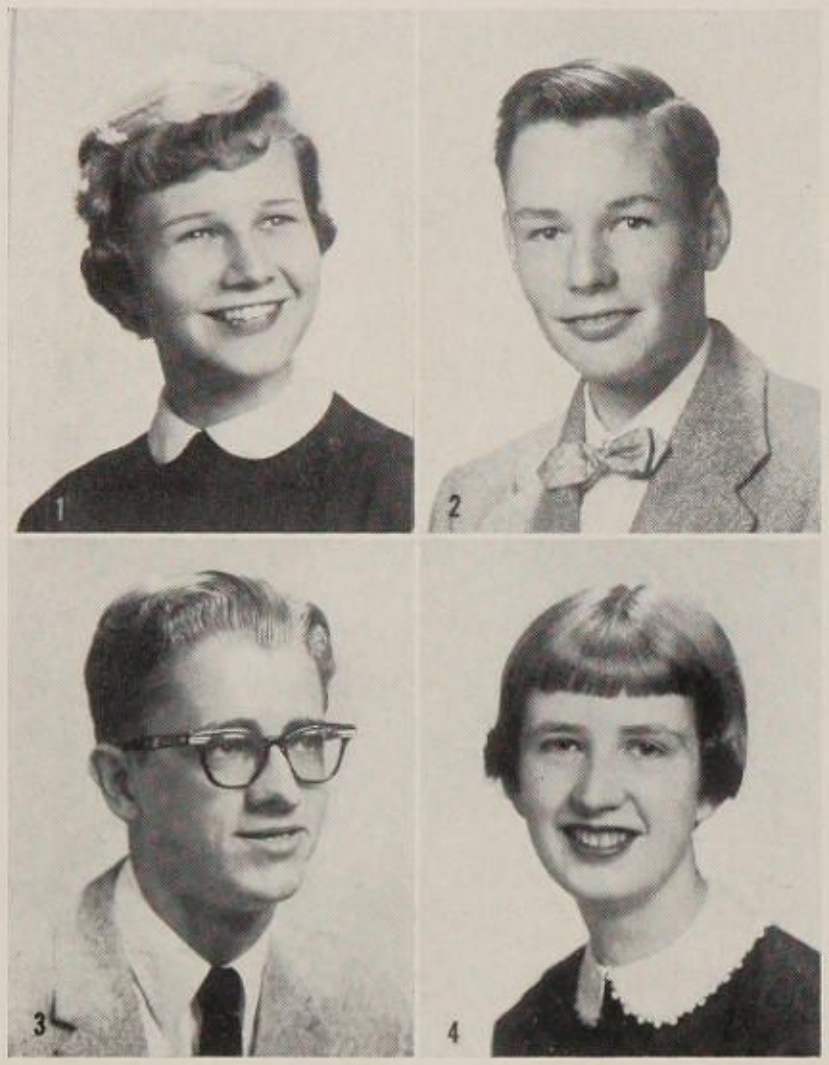
Industrious Students Earn Academic Awards



Awards Day, 1957, brought recognition to these eight students. Through interest and effort they won distinction in several academic fields.

Rosemary Robertson (1) acquired the DAR Award, first and third places in two Elks contests, a Northwestern Transportation scholarship, and a University of Wisconsin scholarship. These honors are a tribute to Rosemary's consistent maintenance of high standards.

His general knowledge in three fields of science plus his natural proficiency and interest in these flelds secured for James MacLaurin (2) the All-Science Award.

Clifford Miller (3) won the Geometry Medal by making the highest score in the competitive examination in that subject.

For her mastery of subject matter and her outstanding work in class, Mary Ann Eastwood (4) received both the Junior English Medal and the Chemistry Medal.

Her natural ability in Latin combined with her production of superior work won for Kay Halversen (5) the George Dewey Barnes Latin Award.

Because of his interest in the field of engineering and because of his excellent high school record in science and mathematics, Don Fitzpatrick (6) merited a Marathon Scholarship. He was one of two seniors selected from students attending thirteen Wisconsin and Michigan high schools in areas in which Marathon Corporation plants are located.

For excellence in the practice of the four communication skills, Kathryn Lindquist (7) received the Sophomore English Medal.

Since Judy Wilfling (8) set and maintained for herself high standards of accomplishment in English IV, she merited the Senior English Medal.

Assessing Values

Rosemary Robertson and Richard Lang, 1957 Commencement speakers, presented a picture of the past and the future. Rosemary's discourse, Years Behind—An Evaluation, emphasized the importance of a strong high school background and introduced Richard's address, Years Ahead—A Challenge, which summarized problems facing graduates.

At the Awards Program certain hopeful juniors and seniors became visibly apprehensive as the National Honor Society adviser stepped to the rostrum.

One senior voiced the question uppermost in many minds, "I wonder if I'll be a member of National Honor this year."

Now the adviser was explaining membership requirements. "Besides maintaining a B average throughout his school career, a student must excel in character, leadership, and service," she said.

The hopeful ones sat in tense silence, straining for every word.

"Each year teachers rate students on the basis of personality. The sum of these ratings also helps to determine a student's eligibility for membership," continued the adviser. "Now I shall read the names."

All eyes were on the speaker. As names were announced, joy sparkled in the eyes of the lucky few who could now proudly say, "I am a member of National Honor Society."

"Ugh!" shuddered Julie. "When Mr. Johnson let that python out of his trunk and when he allowed that tarantula to crawl over his face, he lost one member of his audience completely. I thoroughly enjoyed Anton Chekhov—Russian Writer though.

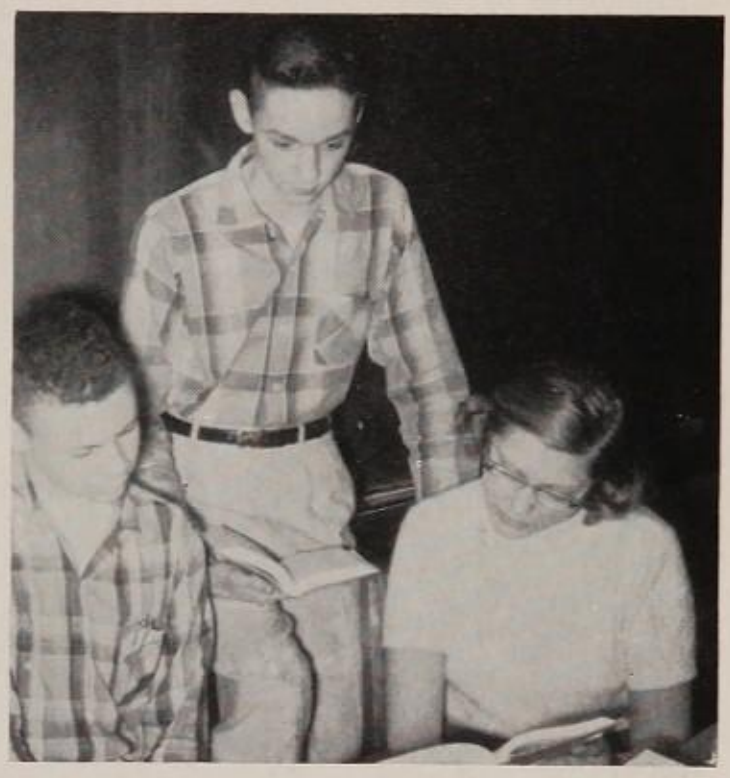
Leaders of Tomorrow

Have you a dream—a dream of becoming a teacher? Are you interested in discovering whether you have the qualities and aptitudes necessary in the teaching profession? Would you like a chance to explore teaching?

If your answer to these questions is yes, then F.T.A. is the perfect club for you. As a member of this organization you will be able to apply your own talents and abilities to educational and civic projects. You will learn the art of planning. You will develop ideals and you will agree with Carl Schurz, who says, "Ideals are like stars. You will not succeed in touching them with your hands; but, like the seafaring man, you choose them as your guides."



TO SUPPORT THEIR CHOICES of prospective colleges for an F.T.A. visit Leroy Wilson, Roy Buxton, and Sandra Ristau examine publications.

PRINTERS CLUB OFFICERS—Fred Kulick, president; Howard Burroughs, secretary-treasurer; and James Funk, vice-president—examine the football schedule being printed for the current season. Young printers learn early that careful checking of copy is required.

Printers Club is an organization with a well-defined program designed to meet the needs of its members.

For instance, in the fall Printers Club plans a yearly tour of local industries that provide a market for the emloyment of printers. Young men are enabled to see their prospective trade in operation and are stimulated to better production in school in order that they may be recommended for job openings in their field when they graduate.

To provide for the social side of the young man's life, Printers Club sponsors a yearly Christmas party at the Y.W.C.A. Lessons in party etiquette precede this holiday event.

It is the hope of Mr. Griffith and Mr. Woolf, club advisers, that the many-sided education offered to their young printers may have a valuable carry-over into life beyond school.

Ordinarily Commercialites were busy learning what employers expect of clerical aides. The Commercial Club Christmas party, however, was a memorable occasion of fun. From the moment when Judy Gajewski presented a beautiful orchid to Miss Acker to the moment when the last crumb of refreshments was consumed, club members enjoyed themselves hilariously. Games requiring alert observation and a slight knowledge of geography kept players entertained.

Currently the club is continuing the bird feeding and tree planting programs begun several years ago. The highlight of the year was the rabbit trapping contest.

Deadlines! Deadlines! Deadlines! Nicolet staff members are literally pursued by that word from September through March. And for what purpose? For the purpose of preserving those precious memories known as participation.

When the 1958 Nicolet was still in the planning stage and while the year was in its infancy, staff members studied N.S.P.A. Helps and Scholastic Editor articles in order to discover aids to that hard-to-find type of journalism called sparkling copy.

Precious Memories

Through firsthand experience writers came to appreciate the truth of copy criticism. In order to sparkle, copy must be vital, must be fresh, must be original—with this statement writers readily agreed. But how could one achieve such copy?

Needless to say, the 1958 staff did not find the pot o' gold at the end of the journalist's rainbow. Editors did learn, however, what authors have known for centuries, namely, that there is no substitute for a writer's enthusiam and for his willing revision.

Homecoming Glory

That annual autumn madness called Homecoming was launched mid trimmings and fanfare on Thursday evening, October 24. More than the chill of fall was in the air; the night was actually gusty and cold when a record crowd of loyal supporters gathered in downtown Menasha to welcome the pep parade, featuring the M.H.S. band, ten floats, and two convertibles filled with royalty and cheerleaders.

Winning float in the parade was the "Kentucky Hill-Billy Scene" depicted by the Printers Club. Of the other nine floats entered, the Art Club's "Bluejay Flying Around the

After the bonfire and pep rally, fans gaily danced in the high school gym until 10:30 P.M. to wind up the first day of Homecoming festivities.

OBLIVIOUS OF THE CAMERA Sandy Krock, Susan White, and Connie Brandt work feverishly on last minute decorations. They must finish this streamer section tonight.

On the morning of May 3 there was a tingle in the air, for this was the day of the Junior Prom. Students attended classes, hopefully looking forward to noon hour and dismissal. Girls had their hair to put up and formals to press while boys had to shine their cars and pick up corsages for their dates.

At 8:30 P.M. prom-goers arrived on the scene of festivity to find the gym transformed into a Japanese wonderland. The juniors had worked hard on the scenes for weeks and had kept the prom title, "Pagoda Paradise," a closely guarded secret.

The quotation "Many are called, but few are chosen" aptly fits a situation in Jay Chorale—a situation facing the director, Mrs. Doverspike, when she found that only fourteen members from this club would be permitted to perform as a madrigal group in the music festival. With objectivity in mind voice selection was made on the basis of blending quality.

Favorite songs in vocal groups usually reflect the personality of the group. If this be so, Boys' Glee Club is a composite. The sophomores enjoy booming out that musical phrase from Sophomoric Philosophy, "A sophomore, the mighty, speaks!" In a battle of music upperclassmen retaliate by declaiming, "I thank whatever gods may be for my unconquerable soul."

It is not difficult to find within a year of Girls' Glee Club effort a snug little drama in three acts. The Christmas Carol Stage, corresponding roughly to Act I in a play, begins in late October after a six-week prologue of vocal exercises—exercises which are designed to measure the length, height, and depth of voice. This may be called the exploratory period.

Act II, the Festival Stage, reflects concentrated study on songs chosen from graded lists of spring festival selections.

In the final act, the Spring Concert Stage, the girls practice diligently on numbers that will reflect their accomplishment in tone flexibilty and breath control. The vocal techniques learned in the first stage are revived throughout the year.

At 7:00 a.m. the sound of a key turning in the lock of the band room door is heard. Two sleepy people enter the quiet band room. Out of the stillness of the silent morning air comes the brusque sound of a trombone. Mr. Mattern is now giving one of the trombone players a private lesson.

By about seven-thirty more sounds join the air waves. The piercing trill of a piccolo, the mellow tones of a clarinet, and the deep bass notes of a tuba crescendo together until the bell rings at eight o'clock and Mr. Mattern calls everyone to attention by tapping his baton on the conductor's stand. Then all sounds cease together.

"Sally, hit a concert B flat," remarks the director.

In short order the band is properly tuned, and rehearsal turns to fine points.

These morning practice sessions grow steadily in depth as concert time draws near. Young musicians are eager to do well. They settle down to long hours of practice, and they discover the importance of teamwork.

Finally concert time arrives. The stands have been placed on the stage, and band members take their places. As house lights dim, musicians feel the significance of the occasion in the instant. Alert to their director's movements they thrill with pride as they prepare to attack the opening bars. This is their big moment.

"Carl, take a level on mike 2," shouts the prop man, scarcely listening for the expected affirmative response.

"Julie, please remember that the word is pronounced no not na!" exclaims Mr. Schoening, play director. "Bruce, let's go over that last line again. Put more feeling into it this time," he goes on.

These suggestions having been made, members of the cast resume their positions on stage, and the rehearsal for the Jay Players' fall production, "Three Fingers in the Door," moves on.

(1) WHAT FUN REHEARSALS can be. Here Carl Nebel, Julie Biggers, and Kirsten Berg take turns in the study of the script. (2) THE MEN BEHIND THE SCENES are important cogs in play machinery. John Ross and Dexter Below are checking light switches for scene changes.

IN THIS ARGUMENT SYLVIA LONG (Kirsten Berg) is pitting her will against that of obdurate William Heupel, a conniving expert. Miss Tessie Tingle (Julie Biggers) and Betsy Brown (Sharon Anklam) watch expectantly.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF STUDENT make-up artists Mr. Schoening, dramatics coach, gives a demonstration lesson in stage make-up for a youthful character. His subject, Bruce Gallagher, takes the part of a well-educated young man.

Curtain Going Up!

Kay Halversen's ambitious efforts in the role of Clara Heupel, a strange-looking girl of eighteen, are so convincingly realistic that nervous giggles convulse the cast and throw the scene momentarily into confusion.

"Let's not spoil good characterization," admonishes Mr. Schoening. "We'll try the scene again."

The rehearsal described in part above reflects the fun and work that must be combined to produce a good performance on opening night.

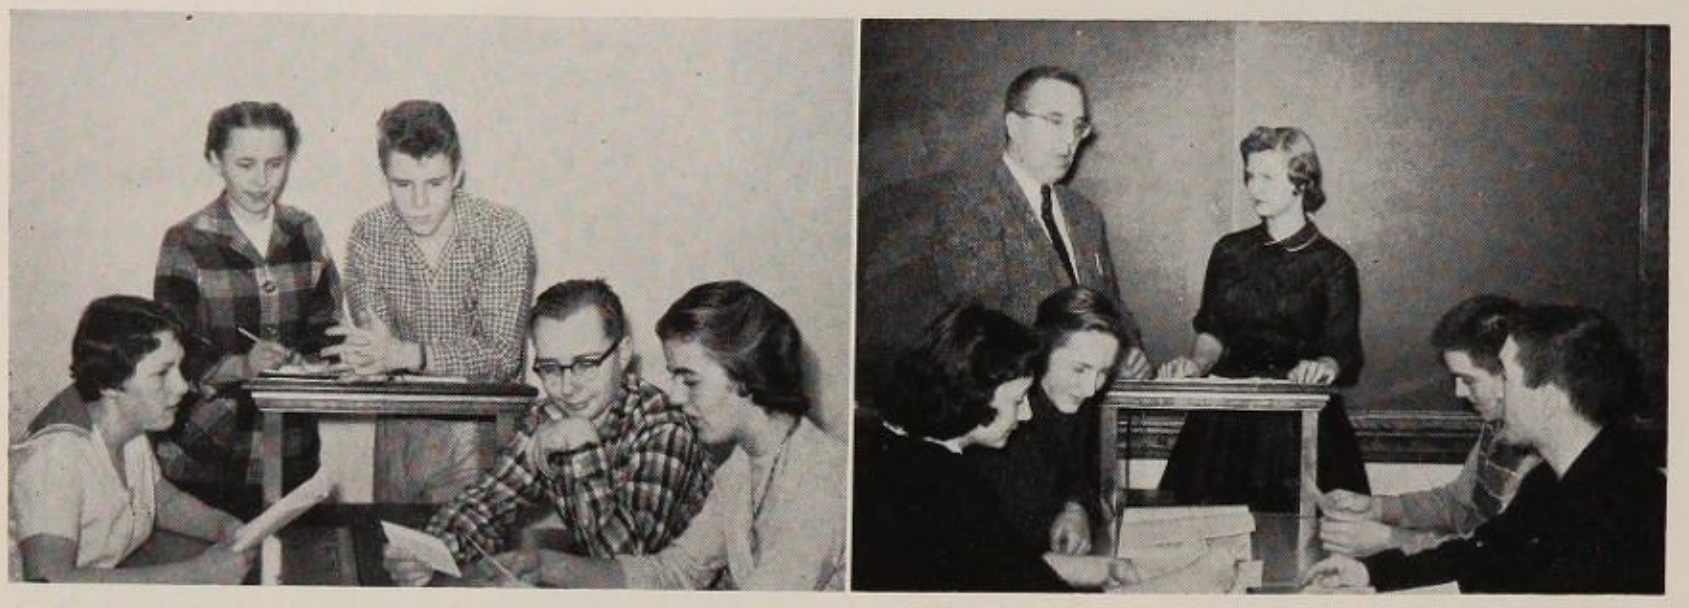
Debate Topic Covers Question of Aid



(1) AT THE REQUEST OF MISS EICHSTEADT, Sally Becker rereads her case. The faces of fellow-debaters—Nancy Hildebrand, Louis Kubicka, and John Asmus—register critical listening. (2) MR. HERZIGER MAKES PLANS for future practice sessions at this meeting with A-debaters Mary Davis, Ted Haber, Kay Halversen, Jon Pekel, and Dennis Kimmell.

The question for debate this year—Resolved: That direct United States' economic aid to individual countries be limited to technical assistance and disaster relief—provided students with an excellent background for interpreting current news on foreign aid. This timely information was put to good use in history classes. As the season advanced, news sleuths vied with one another in the coverage of aid proposals for disaster areas.

The current year's A-team, coached by William Herziger, ended the season in a tie, the debaters having won fifteen and lost fifteen debates. The B-team, coached by Miss Arvilla Eichsteadt, won fifteen and lost twelve, taking a clean sweep of honors in the B-tournament at Kaukauna.

KAY HALVERSEN COMPLETES HER CASE and waits for suggestions. "Just a little more vim, Kay," comments Jon Pekel, completely unaware of the effect of his words on his colleagues, Mary Davis, Ted Haber, and Dennis Kimmell.

"LET'S TRY THIS ARRANGEMENT, Sally," advises Miss Eichsteadt as she suggests that the former organize her arguments into a pyramid of power.

Eliminate Butterflies! Cultivate Poise!

Now they are considering rate and diction. (2) FACULTY ADVISERS FOR FORENSICS include Miss Agnes Wooderick; Miss Arvilla Eichsteadt; William Herziger, chairman; Dalton Schoening; and John Long.

The forsensics program for this year started in October with a speech clinic conducted by the State College at Oshkosh. This clinic emphasized new rules governing contests. In his lecture Dr. William White, chairman of the Speech Department at Oshkosh State, made graphically clear the methods of delivery suitable in specific speech areas.

Local elimination contest winners who went on to the Oshkosh meet as a result of A-ratings won at Kaukauna include Lou Ann Heidtke, Joel Kimmell, Kay Halversen, Ted Haber, Dennis Leatherman, Nancy Hildebrand, Elizabeth Rosenthal, Patsy Eastwood, Carla Gear, Judy Brezinski, and Katherine Christman.

Oshkosh winners went on to Madison.

"Sure thing, Bob!" returns his comrade.

Within minutes Jim comes bounding down the stairs, extension cord in hand. Both fellows then work together on the job of setting up the projector. They adjust the screen, check the film, clean the lenses, and in general place everything in readiness.

Co-operation is the keynote of Student Operators. With films to be checked, movies to be shown, and tape recordings to be made, members find that a share-the-job attitude really helps in getting things done.

Show Us Your Pep!

With vigor and enthusiasm fifty-three girls, under the banner of Pep Club, have worked this year to inspire the student body with pep. At times this Herculean task almost stumped the experts. These girls came forth with meaningful, well-intentioned, and sometimes comical suggestions for skits and publicity.

This year, Pep Club had full charge of the Homecoming parade. Because of their own contagious enthusiasm these girls made the 1957 parade the largest and most artistic in M.H.S. annals.

The scene is cheerleading practice. The time is Wednesday after school. Six peppy leaders and their adviser, Mrs. Herbst, meet to rehearse songs and cheers.

"Let's line up evenly," urges Mrs. Herbst as the girls prepare for the first cheer. "And let's watch our timing."

At Ann Stahl's suggestion the sextette starts with the T - E - A - M!

"Just a minute!" exclaims the adviser. "Your jumps are way off! Janice, you will have to pep it up a little; you're behind the rest. And, Sandy, you're too speedy."

They try again—with some success. Cheerleading practice requires repeated efforts.

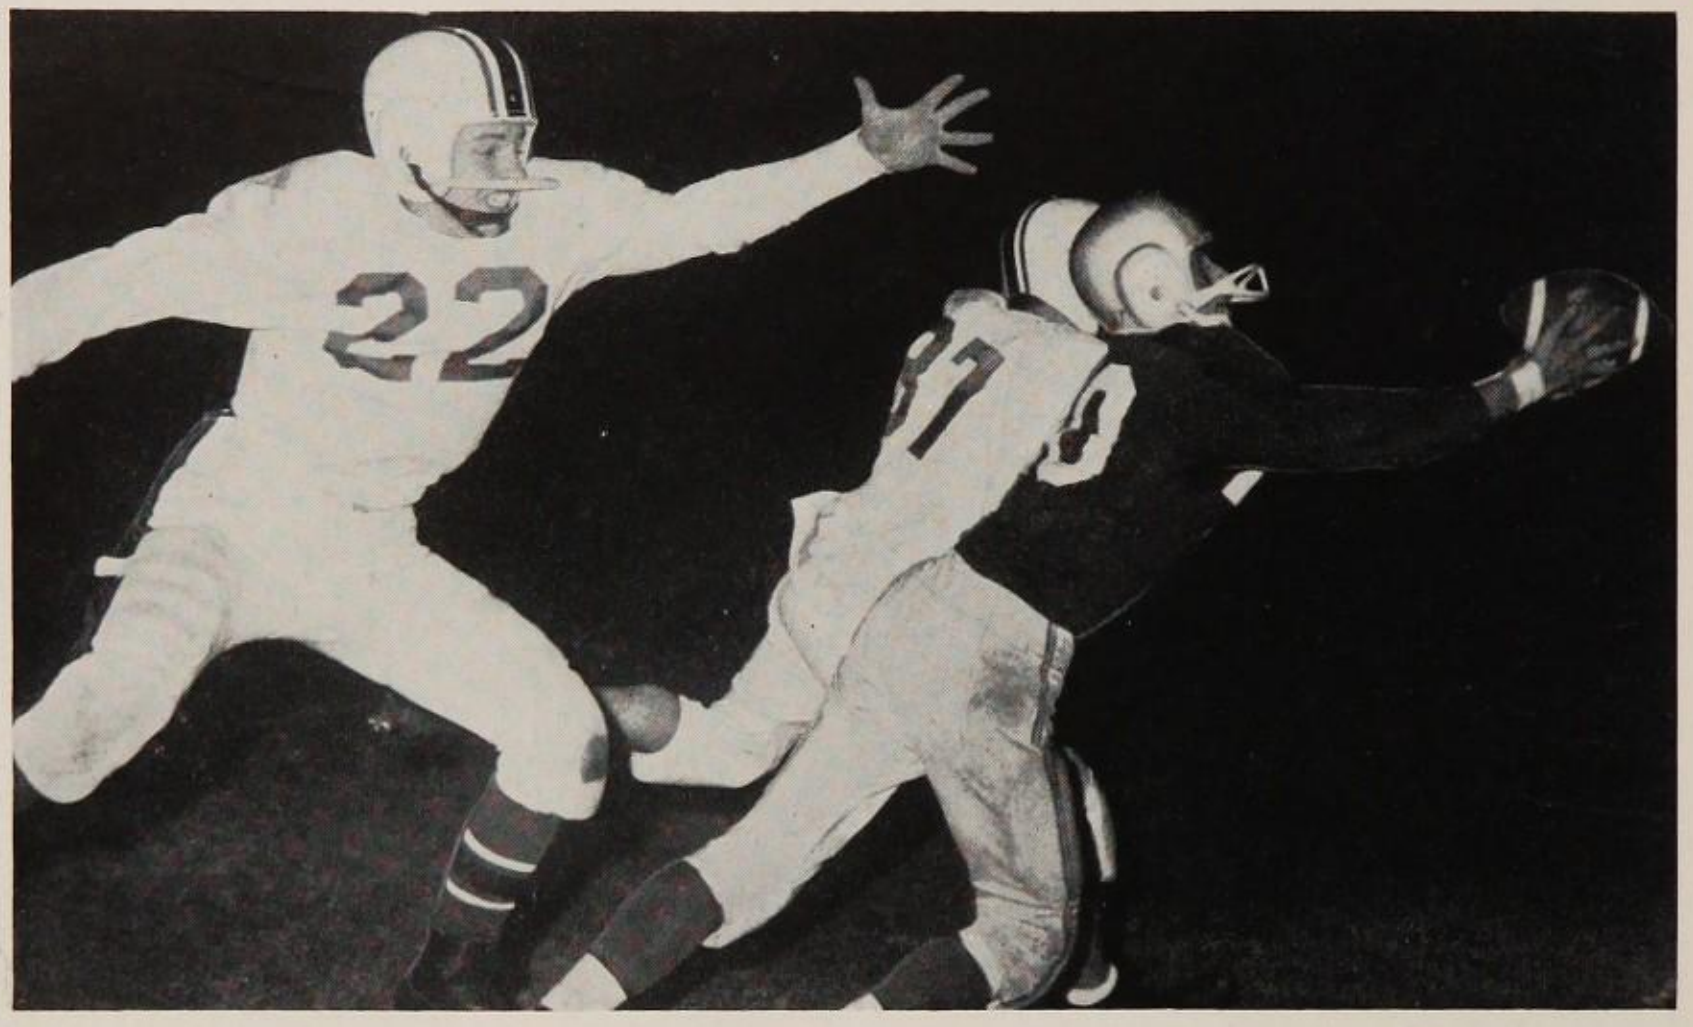
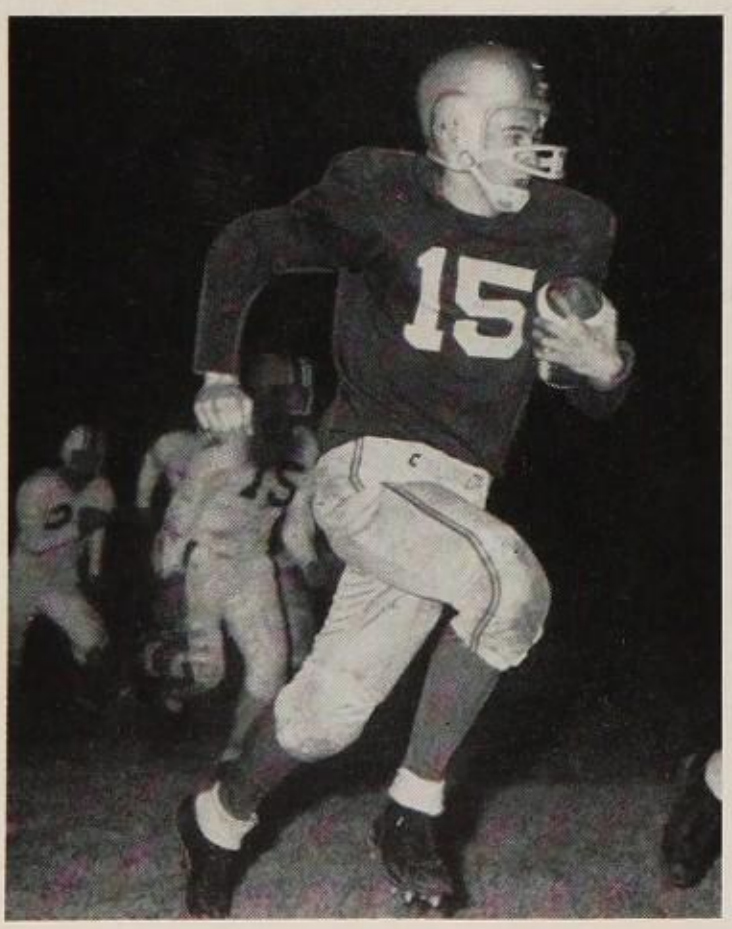
Blue Jays Experience Ups and Downs



DON NELSON MAKES A VALIANT EFFORT to catch an overthrown pass as two Shawano players attempt to force him out of bounds.



DAVE ROBINSON GALLOPS near the sideline, while the Blue Jay interference forms quickly.

The Blue Jay varsity football squad experienced a season of ups and downs, resulting in four wins, three setbacks, and one tie.

In the season's opener at Whiting Field in Appleton a spirited group of Jaybirds set out to prove to everyone including themselves that Menasha would be a threat in league play. They accomplished this by way of a 7-7 deadlock with the Terrors.

In the first conference game with the Two Rivers Purple Raiders, the Jays eked out a 9-6 victory by Ken Konetzke's field goal in the fourth quarter, a feat relatively unheard of in high school football.

Having been beaten only once in the last seven years by a Trucker team, the Jays took a decided edge into the Clintonville game. Striking with a fast backfield and a good blocking line, the Jays won 19-0.

The Menashans absorbed their first defeat at the hands of the powerful Kaukauna Ghosts, 7-21. Before the game ended, three regulars on the Jay squad were sidelined with injuries.

The outmanned Jays suffered a stinging defeat at the hands of the Neenah Rockets, undefeated Mideastern Conference champions, 49-6. Early scoring by the Rockets put up a barrier which the Jays could not overcome.

When the flu bug forced Menasha and New London to postpone their game until November 6, the Jays worked out on the gridiron; the Student Senate, in the gymnasium; and various organizations, in the backyard of some member's home. By way of explanation, everyone was tuning up for the Kimberly-Menasha clash on Homecoming weekend. The victorious portion came by way of a 7-0 Jay upset over the Papermakers.

In the tilt with the Shawano Indians the Jays emerged with a 7-0 victory, but the lowly New London Bulldogs shook Menasha for a 19-7 loss in the season final.

Coached by Lucian Gajewski and Jack VandenBoogaard, the Blue Jay Frosh turned in statistics on a successful season.

The Baby Blues won their opener by defeating the Kimberly Papermakers, 8-0. Late in the second period the yearlings made their only touchdown when Steve Bachhuber recovered a fumble on Kimberly's 49-yard line. The tally came on a two-yard plunge by Dave Ristau. When a Papermaker was dropped in the end zone for a safety, the Jays added two points.

By a score of 20-13 the Menashans defeated McKinley of Appleton.

Against Wilson of Appleton the Jay Frosh romped to an easy 21-6 victory on the strong passing of Bill Gerhard and the versatility of Bill Ritchie, halfback.

Although the Junior Jays lost to Roosevelt of Appleton 25-0, they wound up in a 7-7 tie with Kaukauna, scoring on an eight-yard run by Ritchie in the third period.

With seconds remaining in the Neenah game, Ritchie intercepted a pass and raced 42 yards for a touchdown; but the extra point attempt failed; and the scoring was stopped at 21-20 in favor of Neenah.

SCRAPPY GUARD GORDY SELBACH grabs a rebound against West DePere as Jim Hanson starts down court on a fast break.

The 1957-58 basketball team concluded the season with an 8-6 record in conference play and a 2-4 record against nonconference foes for an overall 10-10 record.

Whatever this year's team lacked in height the players made up in all around scrappiness and in fine team play. Improving vastly as the season progressed, the Jays usually started slowly and came on strong in the second half.

With a 48-43 victory over West DePere the Jays started the season in fine style. Until the second half of the season the Jays played creditable ball irregularly, succeeding in one game only to fall to defeat in the next.

The Jays started a five game winning streak with a 61-49 victory over Kimberly. Top among these wins was the 58-56 victory over Shawano, ranked No. 1 statewide throughout the year.

With Menasha playing control ball

Bow to Neenah in Triple Overtime

throughout the game, the score was knotted 47-47 at the end of regulation play. After two overtimes the score was 53 all. The "sudden death" free throw shooting followed with Shawano tallying three for five and the Jays coming through with five for five.

The Rockets snapped the Jays' winning streak in another heartbreaking triple overtime game. As was the case in the game with Shawano, the Jays played deliberate ball, but the Rockets made good on four for five while the Jays could not tally for a single free throw in the third overtime.

Two Rivers provided the Jays their final win in the season's concluding game.

The Jays won their first round tourney game with a victory over Omro but met their match in a hot-shooting Neenah club and bowed out of tournament play.

Don Nelson and Gordy Selbach speared the scoring punch for Coach Lucian Gajewski's Jays.

Under the tutorship of Coach Vanden-Boogaard, this year's Jayvee cagers gained the skill and confidence necessary for a winning season. In grasping undisputed fourth place the Jays posted eight victories against six setbacks while in non-conference play they won one of their four games for an over-all 9-9 record.

The Jays quickly learned the fastbreak offense combined with the recently installed, effective zone defense. Led by the two scrappy gaurds, Stenson and Wendt and those all-around players—Ristau, Sheets, and Remmel—the Jays molded into a top-notch club.

Jim Stenson with 170, Russell Wendt with 130, and Tom Remmell with 105 points led the scoring on this squad.

This obstinate group led by guard Bill Gerhard and forwards Bill Ritchie and Bill Prange proved to be tough competitors as they opened the season by defeating Kaukauna 67-27. Having tasted victory, the Jays built up the winning skein to six before toppling to first place Kimberly.

The Frosh bounced right back to their winning ways by routing their last four opponents of the season.

With a nucleus of five lettermen Coach Kenney and his netters opened their 1957 season against Sheboygan Central, blasting out a convincing 6-1 victory over Central on the Menasha courts.

In the conference opener against Neenah, the Jays suffered their initial defeat 7-0 as the Rockets took all singles and doubles matches. In the second meeting of the two clubs the Jays fell to the Rockets 6-1.

Against one of the strongest squads in the state the Jays dropped a 6-1 contest to Manitowoc. Evidence of Wauwatosa's long time tennis supremacy showed up again as it invaded Menasha's courts and came out victorious, 7-2.

The Jays completed a fifteen-match schedule with an overall record of eleven wins and four losses. In the sectional tournament the netmen won four matches, thereby accumulating twenty points, a total which gave them second place.

IN THE FIFTH INNING OF THE PAPERMAKER—BLUE JAY GAME, Jay third baseman, Ken Konetzke, receives the throw much too late to put the tag on this Kimberly base runner, Bernie VanRoy.

CAPLESS, FIRST SACKER JIM WILDE valiantly endeavors to beat out a base hit.

Although victory favored the Jay Nine only six times throughout the entire season, the team finished strong, defeating Berlin, Neenah, and North Fond du Lac in district and sectional tournament play.

In spite of the fact that the Jays did drop their two opening nonconference decisions, the club strengthened to seize three consecutive victories, two of which were wins over Kimberly and New London. Costly mistakes and failure to take advantage of numerous scoring opportunities proved to be the downfall of the Jay Nine as they bowed out of conference play without another victory. The pre-tournament schedule closed with three wins and seven defeats.

With the start of tournament action the team suddenly jelled and provided plenty of competition before they were eliminated by Hortonville 3-1 in the first round of the sectional tournament.

Jays Take Third in Conference Meet

COMING INTO HIS OWN around midseason, Larry Wright records a first in the 880.

Once again the Menasha thinclads proved their power on the track and in the field as they rolled up an impressive record of two dual victories over New London and Kaukauna and two triangular victories during the 1957 season. Pacing the team were Tom Hyde, Dave Swatscheno, Don Fitzpatrick, Ron Haass, and Jerry Sobiesczyk, a group that compiled a great share of the Jay's points.

Taking third place at the conference meet with 31 points, Tom Hyde was the only two-event winner for Menasha as he won the century and the high jump. Both Hyde and Don Fitzpatrick lost firsts on disqualifications. Five points separated the Blue Jays from second place Two Rivers.

At the sectional meet held in Ripon Tom Hyde won firsts in the century, high jump, and the 180 yard low hurdles. In a sizzling time of 20.7 seconds Hyde set a new school record in the low hurdles. Jerry Sobiesczyk gained a second in the 220. The Blue Jays compiled 27 points for a fourth place at Ripon. They trailed third place Omro by a one-half point. Jay cindermen felt the loss of Dave Swatscheno in these events.

Place Fourth in District Competition

SHOWN WITH COACH LEROY ARE THE BLUE JAY CINDERMEN STATE REPRESENTATIVES, Tom Hyde and Jerry Sobiesczyk. Hyde competed in the century, high jump, and low hurdles; Sobiesczyk, in the 220 yard dash.

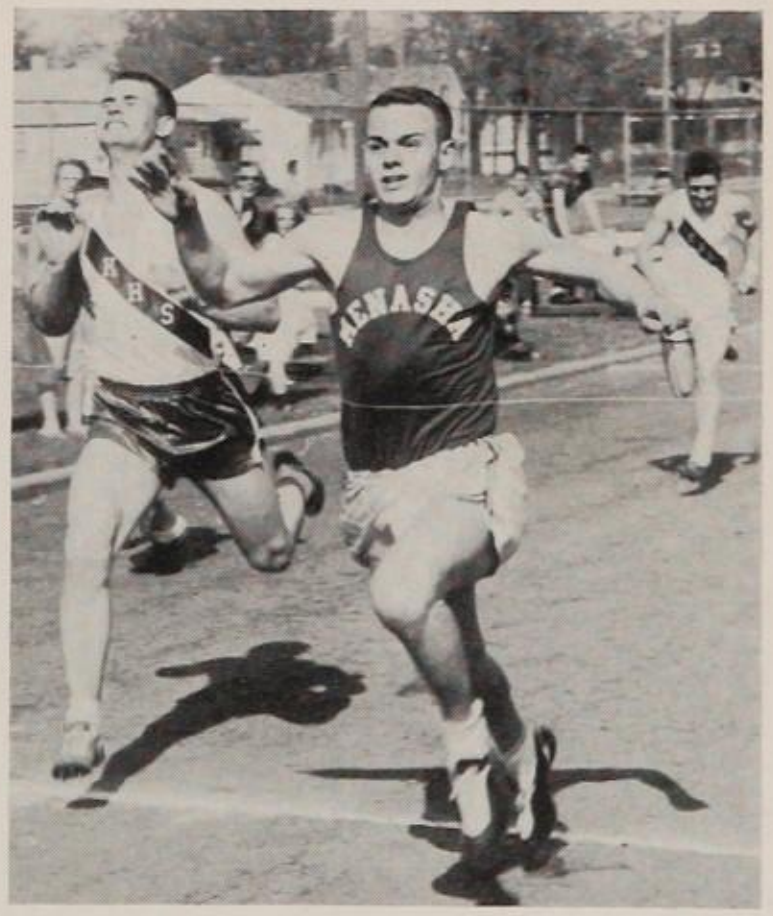
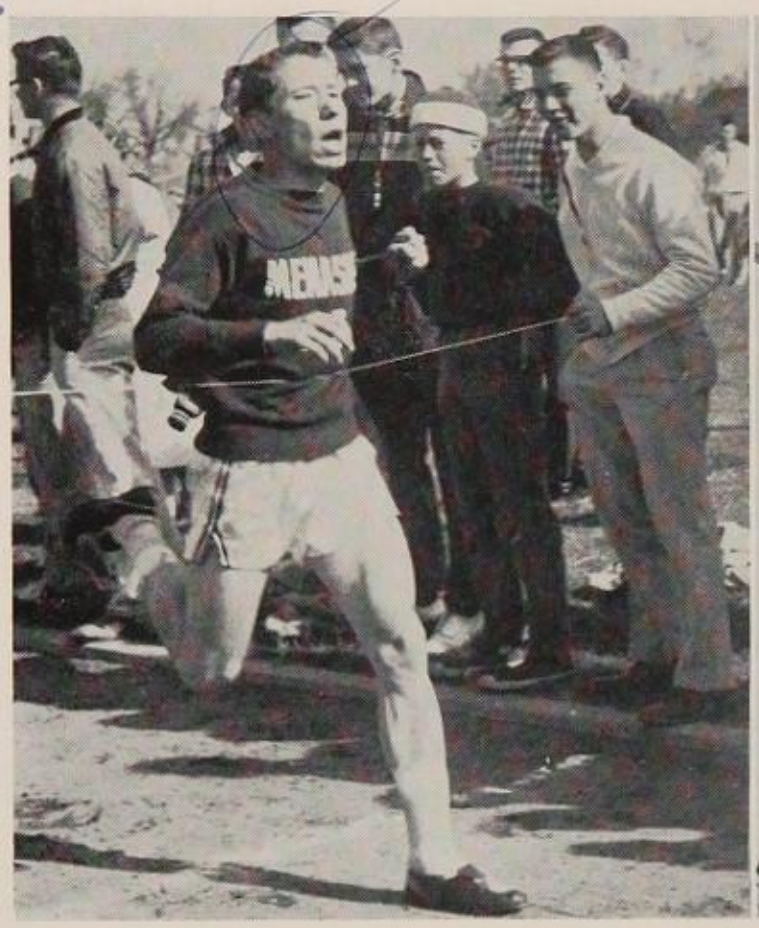
Tom Hyde scored two seconds, one in the century and one in the low hurdles, at the state meet held in Madison. Jerry Sobiesczyk added a fifth in the 220 yard dash for the 9 points accumulated by the Blue Jays. Rodger Van Scotter of Elkhart Lake dethroned Hyde in the century, an event which the latter had won for two consecutive years.

While in high school Tom Hyde set two school records. In the 180 low hurdles, a new event which has been run for only two years, Hyde set a record of 20.7 seconds. His 10.1 in the century constituted another. Anchor man on the 880 relay team, Hyde helped set a class B state record in that event of 1:31.1.



EXECUTING THE FORM that again sent him to the state finals, Tom Hyde wins in league competition.

Two Jay Cindermen Qualify for State

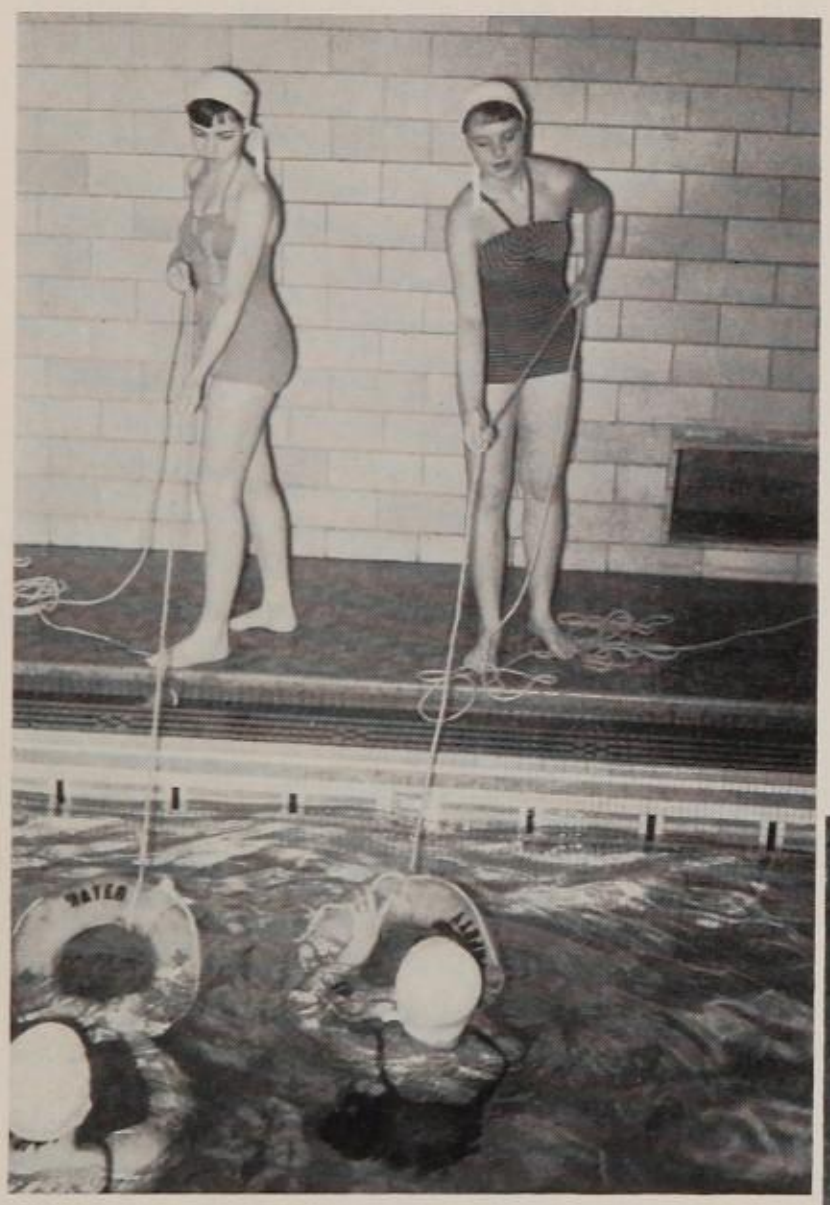


(1) With the crowd cheering him on, Ron Haass, one of the Jay's most consistent scorers in the 440, records another first in his specialty. (2) In a practice session Jerry Plier strains to clear the bar in the high jump.

(1) Aside from his fine record in pole vault competition, Don Fitzpatrick compiled an impressive number of points in the high hurdles. (2) Douglas Russell, Jay miler, lunges at the tape in a final effort for victory.

Water Sprites Enjoy Art of Lifesaving

(1) ONE, TWO, THREE, FOUR! Dorothy Stommel and Kathy Komp maintain rhythm as they practice artificial respiration on Marilyn Bertram and Lou Ann Heidtke. (2) "YOU'LL GET YOUR CLOTHES WET!" laugh Carol Pecor and Sue Bayer as they watch Carla Gear and Sandy Schanke clown themselves into the water in disrobing practice.



(1) JANET THELEN AND Mary Jane Schreiber practice the use of the ring buoys in a lifesaving session. (2) IN THE TIRED SWIMMER'S carry Julie Biggers and Sandy Bjorklund keep an eye on Gloria Gooding and Kathy Stevenson.

Demonstrations and lectures
Are all part of the course;
We listen and learn how,
We work like a horse.
We try the cross-chest—
The hair-carry, too,
And half-drown our partners
As Miss Schultz knew we'd do!
But then the time comes
When we must pass the test
Of saving Miss Schultz
And trying our best.
Our badges are our banners,
Our hearts fill with joy
As we all think ahead
Of saving a small boy.

G.A.A. Boasts Largest Club Membership

(1) IT'S VOLLEYBALL TIME, and Miss Schultz calls, "Sophomore II belongs on this court!" (2) "MAYBE I'LL CATCH up yet!" exclaims Carol Pecor, playing off a match in a table tennis tournament. (3) G.A.A. OFFICERS: Judy Gavinski, president; Sandy Bjorklund, vice-president; Marlene VanBeek, treasurer. Absent: Carla Gear, secretary.

Included in the slate of G.A.A. officers elected at a meeting on September 19 were Judy Gavinski, president; Sandra Bjorklund, vice-president; Marlene VanBeek, treasurer; and Carla Gear, secretary. Under the guidance of Miss Isabel Schultz, adviser, these officers piloted the 134-girl group through a year of competitive, organized sports.

By the time October rolled around G.A.A. members had been divided into ten teams with the following chairmen for each sport: Eileen Kichefski, soccer; Dorothy Stommel, basketball; Gloria Gooding, volleyball; Judy Gavinski, soft ball; Karen Nelson, swimming; June Lornson, life-saving; Marlene VanBeek, badminton; Diane Gilbertson, table tennis; Carol Pecor, archery; and Sandra Bjorklund, tennis.

(1) TEAM CHAIRMEN: Judy Gavinski, baseball; Gloria Gooding, volleyball; Dorothy Stommel, basketball; Eileen Kichefski, soccer. (2) AWARD WINNERS: Judy Gavinski, letter; Gloria Gooding, shield; Susie Pawlowski, pin; Dorothy Stommel, letter; Sandy Bjorklund, shield; Sylvia Miller, shield; Eileen Kichefski, star; June Lornson, shield; Marlene VanBeek, shield.

. . . Thursday Night Is Team Play Time

(1) THESE GIRLS, GRETCHEN HERRBOLD AND Susie Pawlowski, take a rest after completing their mile swim, equivalent to swimming seventy-two lengths of the pool without stopping. (2) "GUARD HER CLOSER, MARILYN. She's going to shoot!" cautions Gail Fitzpatrick. Marilyn Bertram is guarding Pat Arno as the latter gets ready to take a shot.

At the close of the soccer baseball season records revealed that the one and only senior team had won the championship without suffering a defeat. Junior II won the basketball championship with a record of six wins and one loss. Sophomore III led the teams in marathon swimming with 265 lengths.

Eight G.A.A. members—Dorothy Stommel, June Lornson, Jean Romnek, Judy Gavinski, Sylvia Miller, Eileen Kichefski, Joan Romnek, and Arlene Luniak—were chosen to attend Play Day in Oshkosh on January 18. Girls from Neenah, Ripon, Menasha, Oshkosh, Omro, and Berlin participated in sports activities there. Each team, which included a girl from every high school, competed in basketball, volleyball, ping pong, swimming, and dart ball.

(1) INDIVIDUAL SPORTS CHAIRMEN: June Lornson, lifesaving; Sandy Bjorklund, tennis; Karen Nelson, swimming; Diane Gilbertson, table tennis; Carol Pecor, archery. Absent: Marlene VanBeek, badminton. (2) SENIOR SOCCER STARS, clockwise, Sylvia Miller, Theresa Woyak, Catherine Mielke, Arlene Luniak, Judy Gavinski, Carol Luniak, Marilyn Maurer, and Pat Neubauer.

Business As Usual for Maintenance

MAINTENANCE STAFF. Mr. Nicholeisen, Mr. Lueck, Mr. Telin, Mr. Burowski.

Without our realizing the truth of this statement we are, in many ways, dependent upon the maintenance staff in our school. We expect comfortable temperatures, tidy and well-polished floors, clean wash rooms, and well-kept corridors—to name only a few of our expectations. Our adjustment to seasonal changes makes further demands upon our maintenance crew.

Included on this staff are Mr. Nicholeisen and Mr. Borowski, who have charge of order, cleanliness, and repair in the vocational wing and the auditorium; Mr. Lueck, who takes care of the gymnasium and the boys' locker rooms; Mr. Telin, who has general upkeep of the corridors and classrooms; Mr. Dombrowski, who keeps heating and water systems in running order; Mrs. Schommer and Mrs. Kurowski, who have charge of the girls' locker rooms and the administration offices.

MAINTENANCE STAFF. Mr. Dombrowski, Mrs. Schommer, Mrs. Kurowski.

PATHS TO PROGRESS

To keep pace with competition, American industry must grow—must develop new markets for its products. And, to keep pace with the competition they will face in the business world, our nation's students must grow—must develop their talents and knowledge.

From pulpwood to finished product, Marathon Corporation must combine knowledge, experience and modern machinery to improve its food packages and paper products for home and industry. And, from their school years through business careers to follow, our nation's students must combine natural ability with acquired education to make the most of their talents and knowledge.

A progressive student, like a progressive company, can plan for a promising future.

Best of luck to a good football player. Lets see you get roughment year and lets see you throw the ball "Junker" '59

Charlie—
Lets see you win that shot and disc this year at state. Youve got what it takes.
Best of luck to a great guy.
"Doug" Russell '59'

Hi.
We sure had fun in geometry didn't we. I think we had a real nice class.
Good luck in football next year. Let's win the conference.
Best Wishes
Nancy Grant

Hi Chuck.
Good Luck to a swell guy in the years to come. Maybe next year we'll be in some of my classes.
Pat Hanson

More than the best of luck the best of guys and have a riot over the summer.

Doug Russell

Hi Chuck.
Best of luck
in the future.
Have a swell bit.
Kelly

Charlie
I want you to know that you are a darn nice kid
and are too good for you know who. Best of luck in the future and hope to have more classes with you next year
